How Geobrowsers, Social Software and the Web 2.0 are Shaping the Network Society

The Geospatial Web: How Geobrowsers, Social Software and the Web 2.0 are Shaping the Network Society, ISSN 1610-3947, Arno Scharl, Klaus Tochtermann, Springer, 2009, 1846288274, 9781846288272, 310 pages. The Geospatial Web will have a profound impact on managing knowledge & structuring workflows within and across organizations, & on the interaction between those organizations & their target audience. This volume emphasizes the applications & implications of the Geospatial Web & the role of contextual knowledge in shaping the emerging network society. This book summarizes the latest research on the Geospatial Web's technical foundations, describes information services & collaborative tools built on top of geo-browsers, & investigates the economic & societal impacts of geospatial applications. The role of contextual knowledge in shaping the emerging network society deserves particular attention. By integrating geospatial & semantic technology, such contextual knowledge can be extracted automatically for example, when processing Web documents to provide automated news services. Containing chapters from renowned researchers & practitioners, this volume will be invaluable to all interested in this field..
